REALTORONE LIVE LAB · PLAYBOOK

15

15 OBJECTIONS EVERY DUBAI REALTOR FACES

AND HOW TO HANDLE THEM

What the buyer really means, what the book says to do, and the exact words to say, built on softness, echo and one options question.

THE REALTOR ONE

Invisible Habits. Visible Results.

BEFORE THE SCRIPTS

IT STARTS WITH WHAT YOU BELIEVE

Most realtors don't fold because they lack a script. They fold because they believe they can't handle objections, that they aren't ready, or that once a client objects the sale is gone. As Realtor One puts it, beliefs eat tactics for breakfast (Ch.2).

> "An objection is not a refusal. It is a request for more information, more certainty, or more trust. Your job is to provide whichever of those three things is missing."
>
> — Realtor One, Ch.16

Two fears make it worse: fear of rejection and fear of sounding pushy. The buyer feels your panic, "and it confirms their fear" (Ch.16). Panic is the realtor's problem, not the buyer's.

THEN IT'S HOW YOU MAKE THEM FEEL

Objections come up because we don't know how to speak. Cheap or difficult client, or selling to the rich, handling an objection is still selling a feeling, and your words create that feeling. Three pillars carry every script in this playbook:

01
SOFTNESS
"If I may…": use it until it lives in your subconscious.

02
TONALITY
Slow down and soften when they push back (Ch.11).

03
QUESTIONS
Answer, then end every answer with a question.

THE PATTERN 1 SOFTEN → 2 ECHO THEIR PRIORITIES → 3 ASK WITH OPTIONS → then stop talking.

Under the hood, this is the book's three-step formula: Acknowledge → Investigate → Provide (Ch.16). The priorities in the scripts are sample dialogue, so use your buyer's own words.

OBJECTION 01 / 15

01

“I need to think about it.”

Source: RO Ch.16, Objection One; Ch.14, Brave Question #1

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

“I am not yet certain enough to decide. Something is unresolved — I am just not sure what.” They want permission to delay without feeling pressured.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t leave them to think alone. Give the thinking a structure: three specific options to choose from (the property, the timing or the numbers). That is easier to answer than an open question, and it tells you exactly what to address.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Of course. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me you wanted a 3-bed near your kids’ school, under budget and ready by Q2. This one is a 3-bed close to the school, within budget and ready now.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If this property fits the priorities you told me before... if I may ask, what’s stopping you from moving forward? Is it the price, the timing, or something you’re not sure of?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Of course, take your time. Here’s my card — call me when you’re ready.”~~

OBJECTION 02 / 15

02

“The price is too high.”

Source: RO Ch.16, Objection Two; Ch.14, Brave Question #5

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

Either the price is more than they can or will pay, or they haven’t yet understood the value well enough to justify it. These need completely different answers.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t defend the price. Separate the two problems first: a budget problem needs a different property, and a value problem needs data, such as comparable sales from the last 90 days.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“I hear you. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me a balcony with a view and a short walk to the metro matter most, and this unit gives you both.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If this property fits the priorities you told me before... if I may ask, is the price high relative to your budget, or relative to what you think this unit is worth?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Actually, the price is very competitive based on current comparables...”~~

OBJECTION 03 / 15

03

“I want to wait and see how the market moves.”

Source: RO Ch.16, Objection Three; Ch.6, the Cost of Waiting Analysis; Ch.14, Brave Question #8

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

“I am afraid of making the wrong decision.” Market uncertainty is a socially acceptable way to avoid committing.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Help them see what waiting really costs. Lay out both scenarios honestly, using real numbers for this property (prices could drop, or they could rise while rent keeps going out). Then hand the decision back to them and ask what their gut says. Then stop talking.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“That’s a reasonable instinct. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me you want to stop paying rent and own before the kids start school.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If prices dip while you wait, you save a little. If they rise, you pay more, plus the rent in between. If I may ask, which of those feels more likely to you, and what does your gut say?”

DON’T SAY

~~“The market is actually doing really well right now — this is a great time to buy!”~~

OBJECTION 04 / 15

04

“I need to speak to my family first.”

Source: RO Ch.16, Objection Four; Ch.14, Brave Question #4; WD Ch.7, Scenario 3

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

Either the family hasn’t been consulted and needs to be, or family is a comfortable exit from a decision they aren’t ready for yet.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Separate logistics from persuasion. If the family hasn’t seen it, offer a video walkthrough or a family viewing. If there’s a specific concern, bring it out and address it now. WD adds that the hesitant partner often holds veto power, so speak to them directly and respectfully.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Absolutely, it’s a family decision. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me your family wants a safe community for the kids and a spare room for visits. This property covers both.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If this property fits the priorities you told me before... if I may ask, is it that your family hasn’t seen it yet, or is there a specific concern from their side I can help with?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Of course, completely understand — take your time and let me know.”~~

OBJECTION 05 / 15

05

“I found something cheaper elsewhere.”

Source: RO Ch.16, Objection Five

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

Either there really is a comparable property at a lower price, or the ‘cheaper property’ isn’t truly comparable.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Investigate theirs before you defend yours. Thank them for being straight with you and ask for the specifics (building, size, floor, view). Be confident enough to say so if theirs is genuinely the better deal for their criteria.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“That’s really useful, thank you for being straight with me. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me the high floor and the open view were the reasons you liked this one.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, what did you find: is it the same building, size, floor and view, or different on one of those?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Our property offers much better value because of the finishes and the location...”~~

OBJECTION 06 / 15

06

“Another agent can get me a similar unit at a 3% better price.”

Source: RO Ch.16, the Golf Place story

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

They have heard a lower number, but ‘similar unit’ is vague. They often don’t know which unit, floor or view it is.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

In the book’s Golf Place story, the author paused, thanked the buyer, asked whether the other agent had named the unit, floor and view, and then offered a side-by-side. The buyer saw that the units weren’t comparable and went ahead.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Thank you for telling me directly. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me the view and the handover date mattered most to you.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“Did the other agent name the unit, the floor and the view? If I may, shall I send you a side-by-side so you can compare them yourself, or would you rather go through it together on a call?”

DON’T SAY

~~Defending your price, or dropping it, before you know exactly what they are comparing it to.~~

OBJECTION 07 / 15

07

“I am not interested.”

Source: RO Ch.10, cold-call objections

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

On a cold call, most people aren’t interested until they hear the specific advantage.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t plead. Acknowledge them, then ask one quick question about their situation (renting or owning, and how long they’ve been in Dubai). If they answer, they’re engaged.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“I totally understand. If I may ask you one quick question…”

02 ECHO

“You said you’re not looking right now, and that’s fair.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, are you renting at the moment, or do you already own in Dubai?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Just hear me out for two minutes…”~~

OBJECTION 08 / 15

08

“I don’t have time right now.”

Source: RO Ch.10, cold-call objections

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

They’re busy, and that’s a real constraint, not a rejection.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t argue with their constraint. Acknowledge it, be specific about why you’re calling, give them control of the timing, and use “I’m not even sure you’d be interested” to create intrigue.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“I hear you, most people are busy. If I may…”

02 ECHO

“You’ve got your hands full, so I’ll be specific: I have one unit that fits your profile, your budget and your area. I’m not even sure you’d be interested.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, when is a better time in the next 24 hours: later today or tomorrow morning?”

DON’T SAY

~~“It’ll only take five minutes, I promise!”~~

OBJECTION 09 / 15

09

“I know someone who can do it cheaper.”

Source: RO Ch.10; Ch.7 (red ocean vs blue ocean)

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

They’re comparing on commission, not on outcome.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t enter a price war, because you lose. Agree that having options is smart, then ask what matters most to them: the lowest possible commission, or the best outcome with the fastest clean sale.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Great, having options is smart. If I may ask you something…”

02 ECHO

“You told me you want this sold quickly and without headaches.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, what matters most to you: the lowest possible commission, or the best outcome with the fastest, clean sale?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Well, our service is better because…”~~

OBJECTION 10 / 15

10

“Can you send me some options?”

Source: RO Ch.3, Order Taker or Consultant; Ch.14, Brave Question #6

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

They’re inviting you to act as an order taker who reacts instead of leads.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Lead the conversation. Before you send anything, find out what isn’t right about what they’ve already seen, so you aren’t just sending ‘more of the same thing’.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Absolutely. If I may ask you something first...”

02 ECHO

“You said a 2-bedroom in Business Bay.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, so I don’t send you the wrong ones, what matters most: the view, the budget, or how soon you can move in?”

DON’T SAY

~~Sending twelve listings at once: “Here are some great options! Let me know which ones you’d like to view.”~~

OBJECTION 11 / 15

“I’m not sure about Dubai right now.”

Source: RO Ch.6, Why Dubai. Why You? Why Now?

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

“This is not an objection. It is a fear.” They’re considering a big decision in a foreign country in an uncertain world.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Acknowledge the fear and give them certainty and context. The book’s four-word question is “If not Dubai, then where?” Ask it, then stop talking, because the buyer has to face the alternatives.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“I completely understand the hesitation. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me you want a safe base for your family and a steady rental income.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If not Dubai, then where are you considering putting this capital: another city, another asset, or keeping it in the bank?”

DON’T SAY

~~Brushing the fear aside: “Don’t worry about that.”~~

OBJECTION 12 / 15

12

“What if the developer doesn’t deliver?”

Source: RO Ch.17, Off-Plan: the Developer Guarantee

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

A legitimate fear about off-plan risk, and it deserves a legitimate answer, not a dismissal.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Answer with evidence rather than reassurance. The book explains that RERA requires off-plan buyer payments to be held in escrow and released to the developer only as construction milestones are verified. It also says to know this developer’s specific delivery history in your niche.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“That’s a very fair concern, and exactly the right question. If I may…”

02 ECHO

“You told me the safety of your money matters most to you.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, would it help more to see this developer’s delivery history, or to go through how the escrow works on this project?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Don’t worry, they always deliver.”~~

OBJECTION 13 / 15

13

“I’m not sure it’s quite the right size for us.”

Source: RO Ch.14, the Criteria-and-Value Framework; Brave Question #2

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

A criteria problem: the property doesn’t fully meet what they need.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Find the specific gap. Ask: “If we could adjust [the specific criteria], would this be the right property?” or “Out of everything you’ve told me you need, what is the one thing this property is not giving you?”

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“I hear you. If I may ask you something…”

02 ECHO

“You told me you need space for the kids and a home office.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If we found the same layout with one more room, would that be the right property, or is something else missing too?”

DON’T SAY

~~“It’s actually a very good size for the price.”~~

OBJECTION 14 / 15

14

“I need to do more research before deciding.”

Source: RO Ch.14, the Criteria-and-Value Framework

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

A value problem: the property may meet their criteria, but they haven’t yet felt the value clearly enough to justify the decision.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

This doesn’t mean they’re leaving. Ask: “What would make this feel like the obvious choice?” or “Is there something specific I haven’t explained well enough about why this unit is priced where it is?”

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“That’s smart. If I may ask you something…”

02 ECHO

“You told me you want a ready unit in an area with good rental demand.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, what would make this feel like the obvious choice: the numbers, the developer, or seeing it one more time?”

DON’T SAY

~~“Sure, have a look online and get back to me.”~~

OBJECTION 15 / 15

15

“The ROI could be better.”

Source: WD Ch.7, Scenario 2 (the investor who wants ‘better ROI’)

WHAT THEY REALLY MEAN

The ROI concern is usually a proxy for a deeper uncertainty, often about the developer, the market direction, or their own financial commitment.

THE BOOK’S APPROACH

Don’t send more calculations or offer discounts. Ask what ROI would make it the right investment, plus their target and timeline, and then address the real concern, not the stated one.

SAY THIS

01 SOFTEN

“Fair point. If I may ask you something...”

02 ECHO

“You told me you want steady income over the next few years.”

03 ASK WITH OPTIONS

“If I may ask, what ROI would make this feel like the right investment, and is it really the yield, the developer, or the market direction that’s on your mind?”

DON’T SAY

~~Sending more spreadsheets, or cutting the price, before you know the real concern.~~

KEEP PRACTISING

JOIN THE LIVE LAB.

Practise one objection a day, out loud, starting with “If I may…”. Tag the real objection on every lead in the RealtorOne app (CRM, learning, coaching and daily missions), available on Google Play, the App Store and the web.

WhatsApp +91 73023 17285

Sources: Realtor One: From Zero to 96 Million in 14 Months, Aanant Bisht (2026), Ch.2, 3, 6, 7, 10, 11, 14, 16, 17. Why Dubai Buyers Disappear After Viewing and How Top Agents Stop It, Aanant Bisht (WD), Ch.7. Scripts adapted to the softness + echo + options pattern. No market statistics are quoted.

THE REALTOR ONE

Invisible Habits. Visible Results.